IAS / IPS

The Indian Administrative Service often called IAS is an administrative All-India service.

IAS officers serve in strategic and various key positions in the Union Government, State governments and public-sector undertakings.

IAS is the permanent bureaucracy in India and also an inseparable part of the executive of the Government of India, and hence, provides neutrality and continuity to the administration.

IAS, IPS and the IFS(Forest), are the three All India Services. Upon confirming to service after probation as Sub-Divisional Magistrate, an IAS officer is given the administrative command in the district as District Magistrate and Collector.

On attaining the Apex Scale, IAS officers go on to head whole Departments and Ministries of the Government of India.

IAS officers represent the Government of India at the international level in bilateral and the multilateral negotiations.

On deputations, they work at Inter-Governmental organisations like World Bank, International Monetary Fund, Asian Development Bank, and United Nations or its Agencies.

IAS officers at various levels of administration play a vital role in conducting free, fair and smooth elections in India under Election Commission of India.
